Nature's Disinfectant

With the approach of cold weather nearly all germs of disease in the air tecome either inactive or are destroyed by nature's great disinfectant, frest. It is well known that yellow fever and some other diseases positively disappear at the frost line. On the contrary, the dangers from coids and dis cases of the throat and lungs seem to be increased by cold weather. This increase is due not so much, our wisest physicians generally believe, to coid as to the fact that people are housed up more during this period and breathe impure air, and in this enfeebled condition go from warm, often overheated,

The fact that the inhabitants of the Arctic regions are less subject to lung diseases than the children of suppy Italy seems to be proof that some other agency than cold is at work as a destroyer. It is unhappily the rule, rather than the exception, for people to live all winter is rooms which are never syste-matically aired. The average hou-ekeeper feels that her duty is done if she keeps her house warm. Every room in which the family live or sleep should be thoroughly and daily aired by opening the window, so as to secure a current of pure out-door air for at least five or ten minutes. If the room is occupied all day and evening it should be aired twice a day. It is necessary to health to "wash" out a room in this way with fresh air as it is to heat it.

The foul germs of diphtheria, which proceed from defective sewerage and unclean drains mouldy scraps of dust and debris, or any of the well known filth sources of this frightful ecourge, find ready lodgment in the warm atmosphere of our unaired rooms, and ready victims among children weaken-ed by close confinement in overheated houses. It is a matter of statistics that this becase prevails more in the wealthy dis tricts of the cities than in the poorer; and the reason given has been that it is pecu-liarly a disease arising from defective sewerage, for there are no stationary washstands and complex system of sewerage in the iwellings of the very poor. The unwholesome degree of heat main-tained generally in houses fitted with the modern improvements has probably more to do with this than even the sewerage. The English people who have not generally adopted the cellar heater in their houses, consider our overheated houses exceedingly unheal hy, and the cause of the frequent cases of pneumonia and other lung diseases, which are far less prevalent in England, notwithstanding its unwholesome east winds, han here. We have not yet learned the value of could as a disinfectant and health giver. It is a mistake to keep children in the house any day in wister because of the Wrap them well, giving them plenty of space to breath, and never covering their faces with a veil, and let them feel and en

GIVEN THE PENNY BACK .- A little incident which too place at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Pittsturg, two weeks ago is just now attracting considerable comment. It appears that James Swift, a gripman on the Citizens' Traction line, accompanied by his wife, went luto St. Mary's Church to attend mass, and as Father F. K. Tobin, paster of the church, came round to take up the col-tection, Swift dropped a penny into the basket. The amount was too small, however, and the donor was requested to take back his penny. The situation was of course, somewhat embarrassing for Mr. and Mrs. Swift, and the former was very much hurt about it. Father Tobin said yesterday: "It is a general custom at St. Mary's Church, and at nearly all others, not to accept 'cop pers' at the quarterly collection. I saw at ouce that Mr. Swift had dropped a penny in the basket, as it was the only one in it, and I immediately picked it up and handed it back to him, telling him: 'You had better keep that.' He thereupon dropped half a dollar in the basket. A day or two ago I received a letter from Mr. Swift in which he stated that he felt very much hurt about the matter, and although it would not keep him out of the Catholic Church he would never enter St. Mary's again. He also stated that he know a South Side lady who had been treated the same way and had left the Cathclic Church. Our rule is very decisive about not accepting pennies at the quarterly

Wake Up.

If you wake up in the morning with a bitter or bad taste in your mouth, Languor, Dull Headache, Despondency, Constipation, take Simmons Liver Regulator. It corrects the bilious stomach, sweetens the breath and cleanses the furred tongue. Children as well as adults sometimes cat something that does not digest well, producing Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Restlessness, or Sleeplessness—a good dose of Regulator will give relief. So perfectly harmless is this remedy that it can be taken by the youngest infant or the most delicate person without injury, no matter what the condition of the system may be. It can do no harm if it does no good, but its reputation for 40 years proves it never fails in doing good.
